History of ASEAN

ASEAN-the Association of Southeast Asian Nations was established on 8 August 1967 in Bangkok, Thailand, with the signing of the ASEAN Declaration (or Bangkok Declaration) by the Founding Members of ASEAN, namely Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore and Thailand. Afterwards Brunei Darussalam joined on 7 January 1984, Viet Nam on 28 July 1995, Lao PDR and Myanmar on 23 July 1997, and Cambodia on 30 April 1999, making up what is today the ten Member States of ASEAN.

The two-page ASEAN Declaration contains the aims and purposes of the Association, which include cooperation in the economic, social, cultural, technical, educational and other fields, and in the promotion of regional peace and stability through abiding respect for justice and the rule of law, and adherence to the principles of the United Nations Charter.

With a shared vision of ASEAN as a concert of Southeast Asian nations, outward looking, living in peace, stability and prosperity, bonded together in partnership in dynamic development and in a community of caring societies, the ASEAN Leaders in 2003 resolved that an ASEAN Community shall be established in 2020. In 2007, the Leaders affirmed their strong commitment to accelerate the establishment of an ASEAN Community by 2015. The ASEAN Community is comprised of three pillars, namely the ASEAN Political-Security Community, ASEAN Economic Community and ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community, all expected to work in tandem in establishing the ASEAN Community.

To achieve the ASEAN Community, ASEAN is guided by the ASEAN Charter, a firm foundation that provides a legal status and institutional framework for the region. It codifies ASEAN norms, rules and values; sets clear targets for ASEAN; and presents accountability and compliance. The Charter entered into force on 15 December 2008. With the entry into force of the Charter, ASEAN will henceforth operate under a new legal framework and establish a number of new organs to boost its community-building process.

Foreword by H.E Dr. Surin Pitsuwan, Secretary-General of ASEAN

SMEs are known for their role in creating broad-based employment, nurturing entrepreneurship, including that of women and youth, and contributing towards poverty alleviation.

The vast majority of the business enterprises globally are SMEs. A successful SME sector is crucial in broadening and deepening the sustainable flow of trade and investment and equitable economic development through employment opportunities for inclusive economic and social development in the region.

Similar to other regions worldwide, SMEs in ASEAN are facing significant structural, fiscal and non-fiscal issues and challenges, particularly access to finance, access and use of technology, penetration into markets, and a variety of development support services. Conducive and supportive government policies, increased connectivity through better infrastructure facilities and the development of support services are vital in reducing the costs of operations especially for the SMEs to ensure the development of a competitive and resilient SME sector; specifically in support of the single market and production base and equitable economic development in ASEAN.

ASEAN Leaders have long acknowledged the importance of SMEs and have placed emphasis in fostering SME development and capacity building in the region. They have recently reiterated their commitment to SME development to ensure the SMEs are able to reap the benefits of regional integration and tap into the global network of supply chain. To this end the ASEAN Economic Ministers are developing a Framework for Equitable Development that gives emphasis to the SMEs and narrowing the development gap both within and between ASEAN Member States.

Besides efforts at the national, the SMEs themselves at the regional level in ASEAN through the SME Working Group are also taking initiatives to improve engagement of SMEs within the region and integrating into the global economy. The Directory of Outstanding ASEAN SMEs 2011 lists the outstanding SMEs in each ASEAN Member State, categorized by the priority integration sector of ASEAN. It seeks to encourage competitiveness and innovation amongst the regional SMEs in support of sustainable economic development and inclusive growth towards achieving an ASEAN community by the year 2015. I commend the SME Working Group on this initiative and wish them every success in their endeavours to improve the welfare of the SMEs.

Thank you.

Message by H.E. Pushpanathan Sundram, Deputy Secretary-General of ASEAN for the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC)

SMEs in ASEAN account for more than 96% of all enterprises in ASEAN Member States and generate between 50-95% of domestic employment. They also contribute about 30-53% to gross domestic product (GDP), and between 19-31% of exports.

In ASEAN, to further enhance support and contribution of the SMEs to the ASEAN economies, the ASEAN Strategic Action Plan for SME Development 2010-2015 has been developed for the medium term. This Action Plan covers regional commitments in five important areas - namely: SMEs' access to finance; internationalization of SMEs; strengthening SME human resource development and capacity building; improving marketing and ICT skills of SMEs; and establishing SME service centers.

ASEAN, among others, has embarked on a number of specific activities vis-à-vis , an Expert Panel on SME Access to Finance has also been formed to provide expert advice on finance to the regional projects and initiatives to improve SMEs' access to finance from the conventional lending mechanisms to other financing options; the development of the Common Curriculum for Entrepreneurship in ASEAN, a consultation-based learning mechanism involving students, academics and SMEs, comprises 60% common teaching materials and 40% localised teaching materials; the establishment, by 2011, of comprehensive SME Service Centers with regional and sub-regional linkages in ASEAN aimed at improving the technological and managerial capabilities of SMEs developing; improving Technology Incubators in ASEAN economies to nurture and support techno-entrepreneurs from infancy to commercialization stages; and hyper-linking most of the websites of SME agencies in ASEAN to promote the sharing of best practices and information such as national and regional SME events and trade fairs.

It is our fervent hope that the Directory of Outstanding ASEAN SMEs 2011 will provide the avenue for these listed ASEAN SMEs to market and promote trade and investment not only among ASEAN SMEs but also with SMEs and large enterprises of ASEAN dialogue partner countries as well as the global business community.

INTRODUCTION TO THE ASEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY (AEC)

Introduction to ASEAN Economic Community (AEC)

In 2003, all ASEAN Leaders resolved that an ASEAN Community shall be established by 2020. In 2007, the Leaders affirmed their strong commitment to accelerate the establishment of an ASEAN Community by 2015. The ASEAN Community realisation procedure comprises three pillars that work in tandem: the ASEAN Political-Security Community, ASEAN Economic Community and ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community.

Accordingly with these pillars agreed upon, the Leaders agreed to speed up the establishment of the AEC to 2015 and to transform ASEAN into a region with free movement of goods, services, investment, skilled labour, and freer flow of capital.

The ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) Blueprint was then adopted in 2007. The AEC Blueprint serves as a coherent master plan guiding the establishment of the AEC. It identifies the characteristics and elements of the AEC with clear targets and timelines for implementation of various measures as well as pre-agreed flexibilities to accommodate the interests of all ASEAN Member States.

Taking into consideration the importance of the external trade to ASEAN and the need for the ASEAN Community as a whole to remain outward looking, the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) envisages the following key characteristic: (a) a single market and production base, (b) a highly competitive economic region, (c) a region of equitable economic development and (d) a region fully integrated into the global economy.

Single Market and Production Base

With the realisation of the ASEAN Economic Community, ASEAN will become a single market and production base. The establishment of ASEAN as a single market and production base will make ASEAN more dynamic and competitive with new mechanisms and measures to strengthen the implementation of its existing economic initiatives, accelerating regional integration in priority sectors, facilitating movement of business persons, skilled labour and talents; and strengthening the institutional mechanisms of ASEAN.

An ASEAN single market and production base comprises five core elements: (i) free flow of goods; (ii) free flow of services; (iii) free flow of investment; (iv) freer flow of capital; and (v) free flow of skilled labour. Industrial sectors included in the single market and production base comprise the twelve (12) priority integration sectors: agro-based products, air travel (air transport), automotive, e-ASEAN, electronics, fisheries, healthcare, rubber based products, textiles and apparel, tourism, wood-based products and logistics as well as the food, agriculture and forestry sectors.

A single market for goods and services will facilitate the development of production networks in the region and enhance ASEAN's capacity to serve as a global production centre and as a part of the global supply chain. Tariffs will be eliminated and non-tariff barriers will be gradually phased out. Simple, harmonised and standardised trade and customs are expected to reduce transaction costs. There will be a free movement of professionals. ASEAN investors will be free to invest in sectors and the services sector will be opened up.

Competitive Economic Region

The creation of a stable, prosperous, and highly competitive economic region is the goal of ASEAN economic integration.

There are six core elements under the competitive economic region: (i) competition policy; (ii) consumer protection; (iii) intellectual property rights (IPR); (iv) infrastructure development; (v) taxation; (vi) e-commerce.

ASEAN Member States have committed themselves to introduce nation-wide competition policies and laws (CPL) to ensure a level playing field and incubate a culture of fair business competition for enhanced regional economic performance in the long run.

Equitable Economic Development

Under equitable economic development there are two elements: (i) Small and Medium Enterprise (SME) development and (ii) Initiatives for ASEAN Integration. These initiatives move towards bridging the development divide both at the SME level and enhance economic integration of Cambodia, Lao

PDR, Myanmar and Viet Nam (CLMV) to enable all Member States to move forward in a unified manner and to enhance ASEAN's competitiveness as a region as well for all to benefit from the integration process.

Integration with Global Economy

ASEAN operates in an increasingly inter-connected and highly networked global environment, with interdependent markets and globalised industries. In order to enable ASEAN businesses to compete internationally, to make ASEAN a more dynamic and mainstream global supplier and to ensure that the internal market remains attractive for foreign investment, ASEAN has to look beyond the borders of AEC.

Two approaches taken by ASEAN in integrating with the global economy are: (i) a coherent approach towards external economic relations through Free Trade Agreements (FTA) and Closer Economic Partnerships (CEP); and (ii) enhanced participation in global supply networks.

REGIONAL INITIATIVES FOR ASEAN SMEs :
ASEAN STRATEGIC ACTION PLAN
FOR SME DEVELOPMENT 2010 – 2015

ASEAN Strategic Action Plan for SME Development 2010 – 2015

1. Introduction

At the 14th ASEAN Summit, the AEC Council was tasked to develop an ASEAN Action Plan to enhance SMEs' competitiveness and resilience. An important policy focus in the Action Plan - underlined by the High-level Task Force - Economic Integration (HLTF-EI), the ASEAN Economic Ministers (AEM) and ASEAN Leaders, is the need to foster private-sector engagement and partnership on SME issues. This is to serve as a driving force in the implementation of SME development policies and programmes, including those concerned with the accelerated integration of the 12 priority sectors, at the national, subregional and/or regional levels.

The Plan defines the mission, objectives, guiding principles, current status, and future policies and programs for ASEAN SME Development. The Plan aims to provide specific activities to be conducted in the short and medium term, wider dissemination of information on regional activities to ASEAN SMEs, and implementation of national and regional SME policies and programmes.

2. The Policy Environment

2.1 The ASEAN Community

The ASEAN Charter, which came into force on 15 December 2008, embodies the collective intent and political will of the ASEAN Member States towards achieving the vision of an ASEAN Community by 2020.

With the ASEAN Charter, the peoples, institutions and resources of ASEAN Member States are expected to converge into the ASEAN Community with unified and collective goals on key development issues. The realization of this community rests upon the attainment of goals in the various sectors and areas of concern that comprise each of the three pillar communities—ASEAN Political-Security Community, ASEAN Economic Community and ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community. As a community, ASEAN aims bring about a whole new dimension to decades of cooperation among its member countries with new opportunities and amidst more diverse challenges in an increasingly complex global social and economic environment.

At the 14th ASEAN Summit in February 2009, the ASEAN Leaders adopted the APSC Blueprint, ASCC Blueprint and the Initiatives for ASEAN integration (IAI) Work Plan 2, 2009-2015. The Leaders further agreed that these Blueprints, together with the AEC Blueprint, which was approved at the Twelfth ASEAN Summit in November 2007, shall constitute the Roadmap for an ASEAN Community, 2009-2015 to promote a holistic approach in achieving the ASEAN Community goals.

The AEC Blueprint in particular outlines the strategic areas of cooperation and integration to establish a single market and production base, where there is free flow of goods, services, and investment and freer movement of capital and skilled labour, a highly competitive economic region, a region of equitable economic development, and a region fully integrated into the global economy.

2.2 The ASEAN Policy Blueprint for SME Development (APBSD) 2004-2014

The ASEAN Economic Ministers (AEM) met during their Retreat in Siem Reap, Cambodia, on 4-5 May 2009. The Ministers noted that the ASEAN Policy Blueprint for SME Development 2004-2014 (APBSD) aims to facilitate the emergence of a SME sector which is characteristically entrepreneurial, growth oriented, outward-looking, modern and innovative.

The APBSD is currently in its sixth year of implementation. In view of this, the AEM agreed to undertake a stock-taking exercise and review the implementation of the APBSD thus far in ASEAN.¹

¹ Building on the progressive work under the APBSD, the Strategic Action Plan for ASEAN SME Development 2010-2015 was endorsed at the 42nd ASEAN Economic Ministers in 2010, and is set as guiding principles for the regional cooperation on SMEs.

3. Rationale for a Strategic Approach to the Development of SMEs in ASEAN

SMEs are the backbone of the ASEAN economies. They account for more than 96 per cent of all enterprises and for between 50 and 95 per cent of employment in many AMSs. In addition, the contribution of SMEs to GDP is generally significant, about 30-53 per cent, and the contribution of SMEs to exports is between 19-31 per cent. They are also the largest source of domestic employment across all economic sectors and in both rural and urban areas. The SME sector also provides opportunities for women and youth to participate in the economic development of the country.

A strong, dynamic and efficient SME sector will ensure the sustainable, inclusive and broad-based economic and social development. A vibrant SME sector is critical in supporting closer regional integration through the establishment of the ASEAN Community, particularly the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC). Thus, the encouragement and promotion of competitive and innovative SMEs is necessary in contributing to greater economic growth and social development towards more inclusive and broad-based integration of the ASEAN region.

The SME sector in ASEAN, however, is confronted with a wide-range of structural, financial and other challenges, among which are limited access to finance, technologies and markets. There is also the question of entrepreneurial spirit and management skills among ASEAN SMEs. These problems are compounded by the lack of information, inadequate capacity for compliance with standards and certification, and the absence of a more conducive business and policy environment.

In addition, there are the new trends of conducting business utilizing information and communications technology (ICT) with on-line linkages across the value chain as well as the outsourcing and networking strategies adopted by large enterprises and multinational companies (MNCs) which lack participation by SMEs. All these require SMEs and government to undertake proactive capacity building and other measures to ensure and sustain SME participation in supply networks and to sharpen SME competitiveness, flexibility and hence business sustainability.

SMEs are seen to be more agile and adaptable to changes in the business environment, and the increasingly exacting market and consumer requirements. Concerted actions and development programmes in partnership with donor agencies undertaken on a regional basis through the ASEAN SME Working Group (ASMEWG) will be important in enhancing the capacity of SMEs to ensure a more progressive SME sector towards the overall economic growth and the realisation of the ASEAN Community.

Greater competition, rapid technological advances, more demanding and constant changes in market and consumer requirements mean that SMEs have to be innovative and forward looking in order to manage with success the challenges of the global, regional and domestic markets. The formation of SME-based clusters, and inter-firm networks and linkages within ASEAN will help leverage collaboration and collective efficiency, including scale economies across the value chain, thus creating further opportunities for business development and supply linkages for SMEs and their entrepreneurs in the region.

There is additionally a need to create and promote a more conducive business and policy environment for SME development where both Government and the private sector assume synergistic and complementary roles. The Government acts as a facilitator, while SMEs themselves are the engine of growth. Indeed, collaborative SME development programmes within a public-private partnership framework will ensure the continued economic growth and social development in the region. These programs can be achieved through structured and organized action plans and development initiatives, including though the introduction of wide-ranging capacity building and fiscal and financial incentive programmes, with SMEs and their entrepreneurs as the main target beneficiaries (Source: ASEAN Policy Blueprint For SME Development 2004-2014).

The strategic schedule with key activities and timeline is available online at <http://www.asean.org/23237.htm>

6. Implementation, monitoring and updating of the Plan

Medium	51 to 100
Large	101 to above

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

Small and medium enterprises (SMEs) have been identified as major players in industrial development that have a high potential in contributing to the diversification of the economy. SMEs contributed 58% to Brunei's total employment in the private sector and 22% to GDP in all sectors. The statistics show that in 2008 all businesses in Brunei Darussalam are made up of 52.3% of micro enterprises, 43.8% of small enterprises, 2.23% of medium enterprises, and 1.63% of large enterprises.

The primary resources sectors, Islamic financial market and halal market have been identified as key growth areas for local SMEs. One of the areas SMEs are being encouraged to enter is ecotourism.

The government also recognizes the need to develop the capability and competitiveness of local entrepreneurs and businesspersons in terms of socially responsible entrepreneurship qualities, penetration of the export market, productivity, innovation and technology transfer. To enhance the development of local SMEs into competitive and viable businesses both domestically and internationally, the government provides various forms of assistance such as in financing entrepreneurial development, investment incentives, technology transfer, infrastructure and various other facilities.

In line with the development of local investors, the government has also emphasised on attracting foreign investors and international cooperation. Foreign investors are actively sought through extensive promotions and installation of various incentive schemes. Regional, bilateral and multilateral cooperation is considered as the way to further open up more trade and investment opportunities for Brunei Darussalam.

Besides the governmental supports, Brunei Darussalam has four chambers of commerce that play an important role in the development of SMEs. These are the National Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the Brunei Malay Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Brunei International Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. All of them share the common objective of promoting cooperation between its members and strengthening business ties with each other to attain economic prosperity.

SME Agency:

The Ministry of Industry and Primary Resources (MIPR) is responsible for the development of SMEs. The Policy and Planning Division has its mission to plan, formulate and manage industrial and business policies and strategic industry directions in coordination and collaboration with departments and divisions under the MIPR to achieve economic diversification.

Other supporting agencies include the Brunei Economic Development Board (BEBD) which has formulated several effective and promising local business development programmes and initiatives through a framework that emphasizes Capability, Capital and Connectivity. This will create opportunities for local businesses while promoting a business-friendly environment. These include:

- Micro Enterprise Development
- Start-up & Growth Enterprise Development
- Internationalization & Commercialization Support
- Other Initiatives

CAMBODIA

SMEs in Cambodia

Definition:

SMEs in Cambodia are defined based on the equivalent number of full-time employees. The definition is to be applied to all industries. However, where the number of employee is not appropriate, the definition based on the size of total assets (excluding land) or a combination of the two should be used. Nevertheless, there is no formal definition of SME in terms of financial standing because different financial institutions often require different data.

Type of Enterprise	Number of Employees	Asset (USD)
Micro	Less than 10	Less than 50 000
Small	11 to 50	50 to 250 000
Medium	51 to 100	250 to 500 000

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

The SMEs in Cambodia are categorised into three sectors by the Ministry of Industry, Mines and Energy of Cambodia (MIME) as follows:

- 1) Production sector including agricultural processing, manufacturing, and mining;
- 2) Service sector; and
- 3) Trading sector including wholesales and retails.

In 2009, almost all (98.46 percent) of the total 36,116 establishments registered with MIME, are SMEs numbering 35,560. The growth rate of total establishments for the year is 8.3%. The Small and Medium industries are local investment and domestic consumption oriented; meanwhile, large industries mostly are foreign investment and export market oriented. According to MIME in 2009, the small and medium manufacturers in Cambodia accounts for 98.5% whereas large industries accounts for 1.5% of total manufacturers.

In the year 2009, most of the SMEs are in the food, beverages and tobacco sectors (84.33%); followed by the fabricated metal products sector (5.34%); textile and wearing apparel sector (4.05%); other manufacturing industries sector (2.78%); non-metallic mineral products (2.78%); chemicals petroleum, coal, rubber and plastic products (0.58%); and the paper products sector (0.14%), respectively.

In July 2004, the new Rectangular Strategy for Growth, Employment, Equity and Efficiency was announced to govern private sector development and job creation in Cambodia. Part II of the “Rectangular Strategy-Phase II” stated that the Royal Government will continue to improve the business climate for small and medium enterprises.

The RGC has reduced the minimum requirements for the registration of SMEs and the company registration fee. The accounting system and financial report mechanism have been simplified. Loans provided by financial institutions to SMEs have increased considerably.

To implement the RGC's prioritised policies, the MIME will focus on achieving the following four objectives:

- 1) Creating an enabling business environment for the development of the industry and the manufacturing sector;
- 2) Promoting SME and developing businesses;
- 3) Developing private sector and attracting investment; and
- 4) Building human resources capacity and technology transfer.

SME Agency:

The General Department of Industry (GDI) is a primary agency under the MIME, responsible for formulating and implementing government policy and development strategies in the industry sector. It has a core mandate to implement the RGC's Development Policy and Strategy as articulated in the Rectangular Strategy Phase II.

INDONESIA

SMEs in Indonesia

Definition:

SMEs in Indonesia are defined as independent productive enterprises, which are run by individuals or companies that are not subsidiaries that are owned, run or become both directly or indirectly part of a large enterprise. The criteria of SMEs are based on the assets and annual sales as mentioned on the table below.

Type of Enterprise	Asset Value (IDR)	Annual Sales (IDR)
Micro	Less than 50,000,000	Less than 300,000,000
Small	50,000,000 up to 500,000,000	300,000,000 up to 2,500,000,000
Medium	500,000,000 up to 10,000,000,000	2,500,000,000 up to 50,000,000,000
Large	More than 10,000,000,000	More than 50,000,000,000

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

SMEs play a vital role in reducing the rate of poverty and unemployment in the Indonesian economy. In 2009, micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) in Indonesia comprise of 52.7 million units or 99.99% of the total business enterprises, and employs 96.21 million people or 97% of the total labor forces. The SMEs share to GDP and export is 56.53% and 17.02%, respectively.

To empower SMEs, the Indonesian Government has launched several strategic programs such as the Credit for Small Holders, national program of Community Empowerment and Community Health Insurance. The purpose of the Credit for Small Holders program is to give easy loan credits to help businesses, particularly micro enterprises. The government will guarantee up to 80% of the possible bad debt and no collateral is needed.

The credit will accelerate the development of primary sectors and empower small-scale businesses, to improve their accessibility to state, private or regional banks, to reduce poverty levels and expand job opportunities. Individuals, groups or cooperatives are eligible to access this program with credit ranging from IDR5 million up to IDR2 billion (approximately US$ 500 – 200,000). The target is to provide US$ 22 billion of credit per year until 2014.

To further enhance SME access to the global market, the government provides capacity building programs, technology transfer, access to market and facilitates SMEs to participate at global exhibitions.

MSMEs are the engine of our economic growth. They are the main pillars of the Indonesian economy, and serve as the principal source of domestic employment across all economic sectors—including women and young generations. Promoting a competitive and innovative SME sector is mandatory to enhance the economic growth of Indonesia. A strong, dynamic and efficient SME sector will ensure a sustainable economic development.

SME Agency:

The SME agency in Indonesia is the Ministry of Cooperative and SME (MOCSME). The Ministry has been empowering cooperatives, micro, small and medium enterprises (CSMEs) so that they become the primary role players in the national economy. Efforts and strategic moves will continue to be made in a systematic, consistent and sustainable manner.

The key success to empower CSMEs lies in the synergy of government policies and institutions. Thus, the MOCSME takes the role of a coordinator to formulate national policies and is expected to play an active role to empower CSMEs in Indonesia.

Guided by the Strategic Plan of Action for CSME Development (2010-2014), the MOCSME has sought to realize seven Key Development Milestones (KDMs) by 2014. Five out of the seven KDMs concerns SME development which are highlighted as follows:

- 1) increase export value by 20%;
- 2) utilize online SME information system;
- 3) distribute IDR20 trillions annually from Credit for Small Holders;
- 4) generate 1000 skilled entrepreneurs per year; and
- 5) successfully implement 100 One Village One Product (OVOP) movement.

In line with the vision, objectives and goals of the socio-economic development plan (until 2020), the general direction and tasks outlined in the Sixth National Socio-Economic Development Plan (2006-2010), the government issued a decree on SME Promotion and Development, and a strategy on SME Development. These documents are high-level documents, clarifying the policies and setting the focus on areas to promote and develop SMEs. The aim is mainly employment creation and increasing the living standards of people, thus laying the foundations for an industrialized and modernized economic sector, which contributes to economic growth. The focus areas are highlighted as follows:

The National SME Development Plan 2011-2015 which is stipulated under the Seventh National Socio-Economic Development Plan 2011-2015, aims to continue implementing the policies as laid down under the decrees and strategies of SME Promotion and Development. Recently, the SME Promotion Law was drafted in accordance to the decree on SME Promotion and Development. The Small and Medium Enterprise Promotion and Development Office (SMEPDO) was established to implement these policies. The focus areas in the National SME Development Plan 2011-2015, are categorized into seven focus areas, namely:

- 1) Improving the regulatory environment and public administration of economic activities;
- 2) Improving access to finance;
- 3) Formation of new entrepreneurs;

- 5) Enhance business linkages between large enterprises and SMEs;
- 6) Promote the increase of productivities for upgrading the quality and standard of products and services of SMEs and

The Department of Trade Production and Product Development under the Ministry of Industry and Commerce also supports the growth of SMEs by among others; assisting manufacturers and exporters achieve their production potential and marketing ability, organising export and trade promotion and exhibitions, and trade fairs.

MALAYSIA

SMEs in Malaysia

Definition:

Malaysia adopted a common definition of SMEs to facilitate the identification of SMEs in the various sectors and subsectors. This has facilitated the Government to formulate effective development policies, support programmes as well as provision of technical and financial assistance.

An enterprise is considered an SME in each of the respective sectors based on the annual sales turnover or number of full-time employees as shown in the table below.

	Micro-enterprise	Small-enterprise	Medium-enterprise
Manufacturing, Manufacturing-Related Services and Agro-based industries	Sales turnover of less than RM250,000 OR Full time employees less than 5	Sales turnover between RM250,000 and less than RM10 million OR Full time employees between 5 and 50	Sales turnover between RM10 million and RM25 million OR Full time employees between 51 and 150
Agriculture and Information & Communication Technology (ICT)	Sales turnover of less than RM200,000 OR Full time employees less than 5	Sales turnover between RM200,000 and less than RM1 million OR Full time employees between 5 and 19	Sales turnover between RM1 million and RM5 million OR Full time employees between 20 and 50

Category of SMEs

Manufacturing, Manufacturing-Related Services and Agro-based industries

"Small and medium enterprises in the manufacturing, manufacturing related services and agro-based industries are enterprises with full-time employees not exceeding 150 or with annual sales turnover not exceeding RM25 million"

Services, Primary Agriculture and Information & Communication Technology (ICT)

"Small and medium enterprises in the services, primary agriculture and Information & Communication Technology (ICT) sectors are enterprises with full-time employees not exceeding 50 OR with annual sales turnover not exceeding RM5 million"

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

SMEs have long been recognized as the backbone to any economy as they have been an important generator of employment and growth. Similarly in Malaysia, SMEs account for about 99% of total business establishments and contribute 31% of the nation's GDP. SMEs' shares to total employment and exports of the country are 56% and 19% respectively.

SME development programmes implemented by various Ministries & Agencies in Malaysia are based on three (3) main strategic thrusts which aim at:

- 1) Strengthening the enabling infrastructure. Formulations and enactment, or review and amendment, of guidelines, standards, licensing requirements and fiscal incentives governing the operations and activities of SMEs and entrepreneurs:
 - Developing and enhancing physical infrastructure
 - Information management
 - Regulations and operation
- 2) Building the Capacity and Capability of Domestic SMEs. Policies or programmes to enhance the knowledge, skills and ability of SMEs and their employees towards improving their performance, growth and competitiveness:
 - Entrepreneur development
 - Human capital development
 - Advisory services
 - Awareness and outreach
 - Technology enhancement
 - Product development
 - Marketing and Promotion
- 3) Enhancing Access to Financing by SMEs. Policies and programmes to ensure adequate access to financing to support the growth and development of SMEs across all sectors

SME Agency

On 2 May 1996, a specialised agency was established to spur the development of SMEs by providing infrastructure facilities, financial assistance, advisory services, market access and other support programmes. Known as the Small and Medium Industries Development Corporation (SMIDEC), its aim was to develop capable and resilient Malaysian SMEs to be competitive in the global market.

The establishment of the National SME Development Council (NSDC) in 2004 presented yet another chapter in SME development in Malaysia. As the highest policy-making body, its role was to formulate strategies for SME development across all economic sectors, coordinate the tasks of related Ministries and Agencies, encourage partnership with the private sector, as well as ensure effective implementation of the overall SME development programmes in this country. Initiatives under NSDC included enhanced access to financing, financial restructuring and advisory services, information, training and marketing coordination, and a comprehensive SME database to monitor the progress of SMEs across all economic sectors.

In 2007, the NSDC decided to appoint a single dedicated agency to formulate overall policies and strategies for SMEs and to coordinate programmes across all related Ministries and Agencies. SMIDEC was tasked to assume the role and the official transformation into Small and Medium Enterprise Corporation Malaysia (SME Corp. Malaysia) commenced on 2 October 2009. SME Corp. Malaysia is now the central point of reference for information and advisory services for all SMEs in Malaysia.

The industrial sector is steadily increasing year by year.

The following government institutions have been established to develop both state-owned and privately-owned enterprises:

- Further develop the agro-based industries;
- Managing and operating Industrial Training Centers that offers human resource development programmes;

PHILIPPINES

SMEs in the Philippines

Definition:

Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs) shall be defined as any business activity or enterprise engaged in industry, agribusiness and/or services, whether single proprietorship, cooperative, partnership or corporation whose total assets, inclusive of those arising from loans but exclusive of the land on which the particular business entity's office, plant and equipment are situated, must have value falling under the following categories:

Type of Enterprise	Total Asset Value
Micro	PHP 3,000,000 or less (US$55,000 or less)
Small	PHP 3,000,001 15,000,000 (US$55,001 US$277,000)
Medium	PHP 15,000,001 100,000,000 (US$277,001 US$1,850,000)
Large	Above PHP100,000,000 (Above US$1,850,000)

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

The Philippine SME sector is seen as a critical driver for the country's economic growth. The sector serves not only as supplier and subcontractor to large enterprises and exporters but also as part of the support system for logistics services. The SME sector accounted for 99.6% of total establishments in the country, and contributed 61.2% of the country's total employment and 35.7% of total value added. The growth of the SME sector, however, has not been vigorous enough to propel the economy.

The SME sector is made up of 777,436 enterprises across the country in 2009. The bulk of enterprises (91.1%) are composed of micro enterprises. Small enterprises accounted for a share of around 8.1% while medium enterprises registered a very small share of 0.4%. Large enterprises had about the same share as medium enterprises (0.4%).

Almost 50 percent of Philippine SMEs are engaged in wholesale and retail trade while 14 percent and 12 percent are in the manufacturing and hotels and restaurants sectors, respectively.

Republic Act No. 6977, as amended by RA 8289 and further amended by RA 9501 or the amended "Magna Carta for Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises", laid down the legal basis for a comprehensive approach to promote, develop and assist MSMEs in the Philippines. Enacted in 1991, the law is a landmark legislation guided by three principles for setting the pace of MSME development: minimal set of rules and simplification of procedures and requirements; private sector participation in the implementation of policies and programs; and coordination of government efforts to develop the MSME sector.

The law created the Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise Development (MSMED) Council, which is mandated to carry out the provisions of the law and be primarily responsible for the development of the Philippine MSME sector. It also created the Small Business Guarantee and Finance Corporation or SB Corporation and required all lending institutions to set aside at least 8% for micro and small enterprises and at least 2% for medium enterprises of their total loan portfolio and make it available for MSME credit.

Developed in line with RA 9501, the MSME Development Plan of the Philippines aims to promote, support, strengthen, and encourage the growth of MSMEs in all productive sectors of the economy. It seeks to raise the sector's contribution to gross value added (GVA) and employment generation in line with the government's mission of achieving poverty alleviation through inclusive growth. It intends to improve the business environment for MSMEs, increase their access to finance, allow them to penetrate new markets and maintain and expand existing ones, and raise their level of productivity and efficiency using a results-based management approach.

The Plan will take into consideration global themes and cross-cutting issues related to gender, climate change, and green growth, corporate social responsibility, and migration. It will likewise support the adoption of local and regional economic development, sector development, and market system development approaches.

SME Agency:

The Bureau of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise Development (BMSMED) of the Department of Trade and Industry is mandated to formulate, implement and monitor development programs both for MSMEs and for private institutions involved in assisting the trade and industry sector.

The BMSMED, in its capacity as the MSMED Council Secretariat, provides technical support to the Council. As such, the Bureau reviews and prepares position papers concerning policies and issues affecting the growth and development of MSMEs in the areas of investment, trade, financing, technology, structural reforms and regional development.

- 2) The development of innovation and intellectual property;
- 3) The development of supporting factors for business conduct such as:

The concept of the Third SME Promotion Master Plan (2012-2016) is in line with and linked to the government's national policies and other related strategic plans such as, the 11th National Economic and Social Development Plan B.E. 2555-2559 (2012-2016), which still adheres to the philosophy of "sufficiency economy" and "people-centered development," as well as the "creation of balanced development" in all dimensions. In addition, the Third Plan is linked to the strategy of the Ministry of Industry of Thailand and other related ministries, as well as development plans at the sub-regional level that takes into account the needs and the potential of the local people, and the readiness of the public and the private sectors.

VIET NAM

SMEs in Viet nam

Definition:

SMEs in Viet Nam are business entities that are registered under the current regulation and are classified into three categories: micro, small, and medium enterprises. They are defined in accordance to the total capital (equivalent to the total asset value) or the annual average labor headcount. The total capital is used as the priority criterion to define SMEs. The classification of SMEs by sector is illustrated below:

Sector	Micro enterprises	Small enterprises		Medium enterprises
	Labor headcount (person)	Total capital (billion VND)	Labor headcount (person)	Total capital (billion VND)	Labor headcount (person)
I. Agriculture, Forestry, and Fisheries	10	20	200	100	300
II. Industry and Construction	10	20	200	100	300
III. Commerce and Services	10	10	50	50	100

SME Development Policies and Key Statistics:

Improving the Business Environment

SME play a more and more crucial role in the socio-economic development of Viet Nam. SME development is a key component of Viet Nam's approach to poverty alleviation, and fulfilling the country's Millennium Development Goals. The importance of the SME sector in Viet Nam has received growing recognition from all corners of society. Having been fully aware of this, the Communist Party and the Government of Viet Nam considers the development of SME as one of the most important mandates.

Administrative procedures reform is undergoing substantial renovation. The Government adopted “The Master Plan on Simplifying Administrative Procedures (Project 30: Office of Government)” in 2007. The aim is to prepare an inventory, and review, all of the administrative procedures affecting businesses, at both the national and provincial levels. All procedures will be compiled in a comprehensive, transparent and easily accessible database. The second Phase of Project 30 will “review, simplify or abolish cumbersome procedures,” so as to reduce compliance costs.

Business registration. The Enterprise Law transformed the approach to business start-up and registration from one of “asking permission to do business” to one of “notifying the requisite authority of the existence of the business entity”, as long as the planned business activity is not prohibited by law.

At present, business start up is much easier than a few years ago. Start-up procedures, time and cost have all been cut down. Many locations have established one-stop-shop mechanisms for granting the certificate of business registration and tax registration, as well as the stamp-specimen registration (Circular 05/2008/TTLT/BKH-BTC-BCA of July 2008). The time for granting business and tax registration has been reduced to five days (the Enterprise Law allows a maximum of 15 days, excluding time for stamp-engraving and tax registration), and in some locations (such as Lao Cai, Thai Nguyen and Long An, among others) has been further reduced to just three working days.

A national business registration system is now being developed that allows access to public business registration data on a nationwide basis. Streamlined processes are expected to further reduce business registration time and costs, and also ensure more regular updating of information. The one stop shop mechanism has been applied to the business registration process and will be further improved in line with the new registration system.

Other supporting measures includes providing a more transparent and simplified tax procedures, creating favourable business environment through trade and investment facilitation, and accelerating infrastructure development, human resource development, support SMEs financial access to credit, information science and technology.

SME Agency:

SME Support Institutions system in Viet Nam functions under the leadership of the Prime Minister and has been established according to Government Decree No. 90/2001/ND-CP, dated 23 November 2001. The SME Development Council advises the Prime Minister on SME development and is chaired by the Minister of Planning and Investment of Viet Nam.

The Agency for SME Development is the SME policy coordination agency at the central level as well as the standing secretariat of the SME Development Council. At provincial levels, the Department of Planning and Investment under the Provincial/ Municipal People's Committee is the SME policy coordination agency, while many other Departments also implement SME support measures.

Government agencies at the central and provincial levels collaborate closely with private sector representative and public and private service suppliers to assist SMEs to improve their competitiveness.

FREE TRADE AGREEMENTS (FTAs)

ASEAN-China Free Trade Area (ACFTA)

A Framework Agreement on Comprehensive Economic Cooperation between ASEAN and China was signed by all the ASEAN Member States and the People's Republic of China on 4 November 2002 in Phnom Penh. This Agreement provided the legal basis for ASEAN and China to negotiate enabling agreements that have led to the creation of the ASEAN-China Free Trade Area (ACFTA). China is currently the largest trading partner of ASEAN, with trade value of US$178.2 billion in 2010. This makes up for 11.3% of ASEAN's total trade. The ACFTA is a market of 1.94 billion consumers that have a combined GDP of about US$7.59 trillion (preliminary data of 2010). In terms of consumer market size, the ACFTA is the biggest FTA in the world.

Trade in Goods

The Agreement on Trade in Goods, signed on 29 November 2004, is one of the enabling Agreements under the Framework Agreement. It laid down the modality for tariff reduction and elimination for tariff lines categorised in either the Normal Track or the Sensitive Track.

Normal Track: Tariffs on almost all tariff lines in this category have been eliminated by ASEAN-6 (Brunei Darussalam, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand) and China as of 1 January 2010. The remaining few products in this category (i.e. not exceeding 150 tariff lines) will have tariffs eliminated not later than 1 January 2012, as part of the flexibility provided in the modality. For Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar and Viet Nam, tariff elimination will have to be completed by 1 January 2015, with flexibility to eliminate tariffs on products not exceeding 250 tariff lines by 1 January 2018.

Sensitive Track: Products in this Track were further categorised into the Sensitive (SL) and Highly Sensitive Lists (HSL) and would be subject to tariff reduction within the timeframes specified in the Agreement. Tariffs of products in the SL will have to be reduced first to 20% followed by a subsequent reduction to the 0-5% tariff band. For those in the HSL, tariffs will have to be reduced to not more than 50%. The ACFTA does not allow exclusion of products. The Rules of Origin for the ASEAN-China Free Trade Area follows a general rule of 40% regional value content, with a limited number of products subject to product specific rules.

Trade in Services

The Agreement on Trade in Services between ASEAN Member States and China, signed on 14 January 2007, is the second enabling Agreement under the 2002 Framework Agreement. It aims to liberalise and substantially eliminate discriminatory measures with respect to trade in services among the Parties in various service sectors. By applying the GATS Plus principle, the level of liberalisation commitments under this Agreement would be considerably higher than the commitments made by participating countries under the General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS) in the WTO. ASEAN and China embarked on a second round of negotiations in 2008 with the aim of substantially improving the first package of specific commitments. The Protocol to Amend the Agreement on Trade in Services is expected to be signed at the sidelines of the 14th ASEAN-China Summit in November 2011.

Investment

To promote and facilitate investment flows, ASEAN and China also signed an Investment Agreement on 15 August 2009 in Bangkok, Thailand. The Agreement which entered into force on 1 January 2010, aims to create a favourable environment for the investors and their investments from ASEAN and China, and therefore stipulates key protection elements that will provide fair and equitable treatment to investors, non-discriminatory treatment on nationalisation or expropriation and compensation for losses. It has provisions that allow transfers and repatriation of profits to be made freely and in freely usable currency as well as a provision on investor-state dispute settlement that provides investors recourse to arbitration.

ASEAN-Japan Comprehensive Economic Partnership (AJCEP)

The ASEAN-Japan Comprehensive Economic Partnership (AJCEP) Agreement signed in April 2008 and entered into force in December 2008 is comprehensive in scope, covering such fields as trade in goods, trade in services, investment, and economic cooperation. The AJCEP will help continue the momentum for further invigoration of trade and investment in the region.

ASEAN and Japan have a combined gross domestic product of US$7.24 trillion in 2010. The total bilateral trade between ASEAN and Japan has reached US$203.89 billion, making Japan as ASEAN's third largest trading partner in 2010.

The implementation of the AJCEP will allow more goods and services to reach ASEAN and Japanese consumers at lower prices through reduced or zero tariffs, which contributes to their improved standards of living.

Tariff Reduction and Elimination

Under the trade in goods, Japan has to eliminate 92% of its tariff rates based on tariff lines and trade value for goods in the Normal Track within ten (10) years of entry into force (EIF) of the Agreement. Meanwhile, the ASEAN 6 (Brunei, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand) have to eliminate 90% of its tariff rates based on the tariff lines and trade value for goods in the Normal Track within ten (10) years of EIF of the Agreement. For Viet Nam, it has to eliminate 90% of its tariff rates based on tariff lines and certain percentage on trade value for goods in the Normal Track within ten (10) years of EIF. For Cambodia, Laos and Myanmar, certain flexibility was provided. Each has to eliminate 90% of its tariff rates based on either tariff line or trade value for goods in the Normal Track within 13 years of EIF.

For goods under the Highly Sensitive List, Sensitive List and Exclusion List, the modality varies and the tariff cuts were negotiated bilaterally between ASEAN Member States and Japan, taking into account the sensitivities of the parties.

Rules of Origin

Trade facilitating rules of origin (ROO) have been established under the AJCEP that would help encourage regional cumulation of inputs not only benefiting ASEAN industries but also Japanese companies operating in ASEAN such as Mitsubishi, Toyota and other electronic companies who are operating and have huge investments in ASEAN countries. The AJCEP's ROO has a "general rule" of RVC (Regional Value Content) 40% or CTH (Change in Tariff Heading), thereby providing flexibility for exporters/manufacturers in choosing the rule to apply and increasing their chances of complying with the ROO to avail of the preferential tariff treatment.

Services and Investment

As part of the built-in agenda of the AJCEP Agreement, negotiations for services and investment are to commence one year from the entry into force of the Agreement. Following the mandate from the Ministers to bring trade in services and investment into the AJCEP, the Sub-Committee on Services and the Sub-Committee on Investment were established to undertake the negotiations which are targeted to be completed by 2012.

Dispute Settlement Mechanism

A Dispute Settlement Chapter has been provided under the AJCEP to address disputes that may arise from the interpretation of the implementation of the TIG Agreement.

Overall Benefits

As more investors come to ASEAN through the AJCEP, it is expected that this will help narrow the economic divide among the estimated 725 million peoples of ASEAN and Japan. From 2002 to 2010, the total FDI from Japan in ASEAN reached US$56 billion and this is expected to grow as the implementation of the AJCEP continues.

ASEAN-Korea Free Trade Area (AKFTA)

The Republic of Korea (Korea) is the second dialogue partner with whom ASEAN has forged a free trade agreement. In 2005, ASEAN and Korea signed the Framework Agreement on Comprehensive Economic Cooperation (Framework Agreement), and subsequently, signed four (4) more agreements that form the legal instruments for establishing the ASEAN-Korea Free Trade Area (AKFTA). In 2010, Korea was the fifth largest trading partner of ASEAN with trade amounting to US$98.13 billion. Foreign direct investment flows from Korea into ASEAN was US$3.7 billion.

Trade in Goods

The ASEAN-Korea Trade in Goods (AK-TIG) Agreement, signed on 24 August 2006, sets out the preferential trade arrangement in goods between the ten (10) ASEAN Member States and Korea, which, principally, involves tariff reduction and elimination for all tariff lines over a transition period. On 1 January 2010, Korea and ASEAN-5 (Brunei Darussalam, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Singapore) have eliminated tariffs on almost 90% of products in the Normal Track.

For the newer members of ASEAN, namely, Viet Nam, Cambodia, Lao PDR and Myanmar, a longer transition period for tariff reduction and elimination had been agreed in recognition of their development status. For Viet Nam, at least 50% of tariff lines under the Normal Track will enjoy a 0-5% tariff rate not later than 1 January 2013, and not later than 1 January 2015 for Cambodia, Lao PDR and Myanmar (CLM). Tariff lines enjoying the reduced tariffs rates of 0-5% will reach 90% coverage by 2016 for Viet Nam and 2018 for CLM. By 2017 and 2020 products under the Viet Nam and CLM's Normal Track, respectively would have full market access, that is, at zero tariff. Thailand, which acceded to the AK-TIG in 2007, has a different schedule. Tariffs for products in the Normal Track would be reduced over a transition period and will be eliminated by either 2016 or 2017.

Trade in Services

The ASEAN-Korea Trade in Services (AK-TIS) Agreement, signed on 21 November 2007, provides the platform for further opening up or greater market access for ASEAN and Korean service providers. Building on their existing commitments in the WTO under General Agreement on Trade in Services (GATS), ASEAN and Korea both improved their levels and depth of commitments through the addition of new sectors/sub-sectors in the list of commitments and the easing up of restrictions on entry and treatment on a wide range of service sectors including business, construction, education, communication services, the environment, tourism services, and transport services.

Investment

The ASEAN-Korea Agreement on Investment (AK-AI), signed on 2 June 2009, aims to provide for a transparent, facilitative and a more secure environment for ASEAN and Korean investors and their investments. Major components of the AK-AI are the protection elements which include provisions on fair and equitable treatment and full protection and security of covered investments; transfers of funds relating to covered investments; and compensation in the event of nationalisation or expropriation of covered investments. The agreement was entered into force on 1 September 2009. However, work on the AK-AI continues as ASEAN and Korea pursue the completion of built-in-agenda items, which include the development of market access commitments or schedules of reservations. ASEAN and Korea will commence and conclude discussions on these agenda items within five years from entry into force of the Agreement.

Dispute Settlement Mechanism

The ASEAN-Korea Agreement on Dispute Settlement Mechanism, signed on 13 December 2005, provides the mechanism for any disputes that may arise between Parties from the interpretation, implementation or application of all the above cited Agreements including the Framework Agreement.

ASEAN-India Free Trade Area

The ASEAN-India Trade in Goods (AITIG) Agreement was signed on 13 August 2009. The entry into force of the Agreement starting 1 January 2010 paves the way for the creation of one of the world's largest free trade areas - a market comprising 1.8 billion people with a combined gross domestic product of approximately US$3.28trillion as of 2010. India remained as ASEAN's sixth largest trading partner and sixth largest investor in 2010. ASEAN-India trade totalled US$55.3 billion in that year.

Trade in Goods

The TIG provides for a progressive tariff reduction and/or elimination of originating goods (subject to compliance with the rules of origin) traded for the ten ASEAN Member States and India. Under the Normal Track, tariffs imposed by Brunei Darussalam, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand and India will be eliminated by 2016. Tariffs imposed between the Philippines and India under the Normal Track will only be eliminated by 2019. Meanwhile, a longer time frame is given for Cambodia, Lao PDR, Myanmar and Viet Nam (CLMV) to eliminate tariffs of goods under the Normal Track.

Under the Sensitive Track, goods with applied MFN rates of above 5% will be reduced to 5% by 2016 for Brunei Darussalam, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and India; 2019 for the Philippines and India; and 2021 for CLMV.

The AITIG also provides for different tariff rates for special products, i.e. crude and refined palm oil, coffee, black tea and pepper. There are also goods placed under the highly sensitive lists and exclusion list. However, these lists are subject to an annual review in the effort towards improving market access.

A general rule of RVC (Regional Value Content) 35% + CTS (Change in Tariff Sub-Heading) is applied as the criterion for goods to be considered as originating and eligible for preferential tariff treatment. Product specific rules are being negotiated to provide alternative rule for certain products/sectors.

Services and Investment

Negotiations on services and investment agreements are on-going.

ASEAN-Australia-New Zealand Free Trade Area (AANZFTA)

The Agreement Establishing the ASEAN-Australia-New Zealand Free Trade Area (AANZFTA) that aims to integrate twelve (12) markets into a market of 625 million people with a combined GDP of US$2.61 trillion (as of 2010) was signed in Thailand on 27 February 2009. The Agreement entered into force on 1 January 2010. Total trade between the regions was US$62.2 billion in 2010. Despite the global financial crisis and the decline of global foreign investment flows, total level (or stock) of Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) from Australia-New Zealand in ASEAN continued to grow.

AANZFTA Agreement: The “Firsts”

The AANZFTA Agreement is the “first”:

- (i) plurilateral agreement for both ASEAN and Australia (New Zealand has a plurilateral agreement with Brunei, Singapore and Chile, i.e. the P4 or the Trans-Pacific Strategic Economic Partnership);
- (ii) comprehensive single undertaking agreement negotiated and signed by ASEAN with a Dialogue Partner - it covers trade in goods and services, electronic commerce, movement of natural persons, investment, economic cooperation, dispute settlement mechanism and specific provisions on customs procedures, sanitary and phytosanitary (SPS) measures, standards and technical regulations, intellectual property rights and competition;
- (iii) region-to-region engagement for ASEAN; and
- (iv) agreement that Australia and New Zealand have jointly negotiated.

The “Core” Obligations

ASEAN Member States, Australia and New Zealand are bound by the AANZFTA Agreement to, among others:

- (i) progressively liberalise tariffs from the entry into force of the Agreement and eliminate tariffs on at least 90% of all their tariff lines within specific timeframes;
- (ii) progressively liberalise barriers to trade in services and allow for greater market access for the other Parties' services suppliers;

- (iii) facilitate the movement of natural persons for those engaged in trade and investment activities in the region;
- (iv) accord protection to covered investments, in terms of treatment of investment, compensation for losses, transfers relating to profit and capital, and transfer of rights or claims to investment; and
- (v) facilitate the movement of goods by implementing specific provisions on rules of origin; customs procedures; SPS measures; and standards, technical regulations and conformity assessment procedures.

Schedules of specific commitments in relation to trade in goods (tariffs), trade in services (including financial services and telecommunication services) and movement of natural persons are annexed to the AANZFTA Agreement.

Benefits

The AANZFTA Agreement opens up opportunities for stakeholders in ASEAN, Australia and New Zealand. These include: greater market access for exporters/manufacturers in the region; promotion of economies of scale in production; opportunities for networking and complementation; and enhanced collaboration among economic operators in the region. With the AANZFTA creating a business environment that promotes certainty, predictability and transparency, economic operators are assured that commercial activities are not unnecessarily interrupted or disrupted.
